BOLD EXPRESS ROBBERY

Details of the Affair on the Missouri Pacific.

HOW THE WORK WAS ACCOMPLISHED

The Engineer Compelled at the Pistol's Point to Stop the Train—The Fireman, Under the Same Persuasion, Had to Break Open the Express Door—Promiscuous Shooting Indulged in by the Robbers—The Amount Secured

KANSAS CITY Mo, Nov 6—The Missouri Pacific passenger train which was robbed Wednesday night at West Side, near Omaha, arrived here Thursday morning three hours late The train looked as if it had gone through the war The front door of the express car was broken into splinters, the front door of the smoking car had the glass smashed out by bullets and the other cars were more or less perforated with bullet holes. The Pacific express car was the only one that was robbed The express matter the robbers did not take was sent to the company's office Sam Green, the messenger, went to the superintendent's office and was closeted with the superintendent for some time He said the robbers only got $255 83. Superintendent Johnson also agreed with the messenger on that amount. It seems to be the general belief, however, that $6 000 will more nearly cover the company's loss

Story of the Affair

The best story of the robbery is told by Fireman Blanchard, and is substantially as follows

We had got pretty near to the Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley crossing, twelve miles north of Omaha when I saw two masked fellows with guns in their hands come crawling over the water tank and coal tender

"Hold up your hands' they yelled, with an oath and my hands went up that quick But Cavanaugh the engineer, did not hold up his hands at all He just kept them on the lever and stop cock and looked around over his shoulder

'Slow her up' they said, and Cavanaugh slowed her up

'Stop her at the crossing' was the next thing we heard from under the masks, and we did just as they said for we were looking down barrels of guns that looked like cannons to us

Began to Shoot Promiscuously

"Now get off' they ordered We got off Then there was an explosion on the front end of the express car Then two more fellows came up

They all began to shoot around promiscuously, and did not seem to care where their bullets went or where they hit They shot into the express car, and into the smoker and all around generally There must have been a hundred shots fired

They gave me an ax and told me to break in the wrecked door of the express car. I did not work very good, and they got mad and commenced firing into the platform where I stood One bullet cut Cavanaugh's overalls and grazed his leg When they saw the door was broken loose they told me to tell the express messenger to light up inside and come out I called to Sam and told him what they wanted

Went Through Everything.

Sam was lying over in the corner of the car hid down among some stuff behind a coffin The explosion had blown out his lights but he lit a lamp and came to the door Then the men marched into the car and again made us hold up our hands Then they made Sam shell out his keys

"'Where's your safe?' they asked

"'You are standing on it,' said Sam Then they went through everything

After they had completed the robbery of the car one of the masked men, who seemed to be the leader, turned to the engineer and fireman and said 'Come ahead' The robbers got off the train 'I guess it is all right,' he said get back on the engine and go ahead'"

The engineer and fireman complied and the robbers disappeared Several of the bullets fired by the robbers entered the sleeper and day coaches at the rear of the train and several passengers narrowly escaped being hit

Identified but Not Murdered

CHICAGO, Nov 6—The police no longer adhere to the theory that the woman whose body was found Tuesday on the Northwestern tracks near Artesian avenue was murdered The remains have been identified as those of Mrs Fannie Cartwright, an actress, who lived with her mother at 1165 West Madison street She was seen by a friend to go toward the railroad tracks at Artesian avenue, The crossing is in a dark and obscure place, and the police think she was knocked down by a passing train

They Celebrated Guy Fawkes Day

PORTSMOUTH, N H Nov 6—"Pope Night' was celebrated in this city Thursday Bands of boys paraded the streets blowing horns and carrying pumpkin lanterns cut into hideous faces It has been the custom for years to celebrate this night in Portsmouth, which place is the only one in the United States w[illegible] the olden English custom of celebr[illegible] Guy Fawkes night in remembrance o[illegible] discovery of the famous gunpowder plot is observed

Will Contest the Election.

CHICAGO, Nov 6—Ossian Guthrie, Independent candidate for drainage trustee, has served notice on the election commissioners that he will contest the election of the candidates having the highest votes, on the ground that they were not legally nominated

Put Arsenic in the Pancakes.

AMHERST, N S, Nov 6—The daughter of George McKay put arsenic in the pancakes in mistake for baking powder at their morning's breakfast All of the family partook of the cakes The daughter is dead and the rest of the family is in bad shape

Steamer Burned at Sea.

ATHENS Nov 6—An unknown British steamer, loaded with petroleum, has been burned on the east coast of Euboia. Six persons were saved, and the bodies of six men and one woman were washed ashore A gunboat has been dispatched to the scene

International Jewish Congress.

LONDON, Nov 6—It is reported that Baron Hirsch is arranging for an international Jewish congress to be held in 1892 in London The object of the proposed congress is to consider and, if possible solve, the problem of Jewish colonization

GIGANTIC RAILWAY SCHEME

Mail Trains Every Hour Between New York and Chicago

BUFFALO, Nov 6—When the Central railroad made a special run between New York and Buffalo a few weeks ago at the rate of over sixty miles an hour the railroad world opened its eyes and wondered what next The next was the wonderful Empire express which daily makes the run of 440 miles between New York and Buffalo in eight hours and forty minutes, an average speed of fifty-two and a half miles an hour Then the railroad world settled back and thought the Central had reached its limit. But it hasn't It has been working for some time past on a gigantic scheme of a fast long distance run which will eclipse all the world and set the railroad people to thinking mighty hard

Mail Trains Each Hour.

This scheme is to run trains every hour between New York and Chicago carrying the mails But few arrangements lack completion, and as soon as everything is in readiness the first train will be sent out and sixty minutes later another will leave These arrangements will be completed about Jan 1 and then a continuous line of Central railroad trains, one hour apart, will connect the two great cities of the continent, an unbroken train will connect the sea and the lake No road but the Central could attempt this feat, for no road but the Central has the tracks to work upon The Central has six tracks between here and New York, its own four and the West Shore's two and it has six tracks between Buffalo and Chicago—the Michigan Central, the Lake Shore and the Nickel Plate—which is fast being gotten in readiness for the great rush of trains

Will Make Fast Time

As soon as it is completed to the city of wonderful growth then the schedule will be put into force and the greatest railroading of the world will begin Nor is this all It is understood that General Passenger Agent George H Daniels has in view a speedy train which will make the run between New York and Chicago in less than twenty hours This train will be a solid vestibule train and will carry only personal baggage When Mr Daniels hears murmurs of smash up and horrors he smiles just as old George Tompkins of the Erie used to smile when passengers refused to ride thirty five miles an hour claiming twenty miles was fast enough without a man wanted his carcass in the ditch'

CHICAGO, INDIANA

That Is Where the Hoosiers Would Situate the Windy City

NEW YORK Nov 6—A special to The Recorder says it is expected there will be a wild howl from Chicago when she learns that Indiana may ask for and receive a slice of land twelve miles wide off the eastern portion of Illinois to justify a claim that will be made on the next Illinois legislature Should the claim be held valid it will include the great $25 000,000 stock yards as well as the present site of the World's fair

Ohio's Claim Against Indiana

The immediate basis of the claim results from an Ohio claim filed against Indiana for a twelve mile strip of land on the eastern boundary As Indiana's western boundary line was originally fixed by measurement from the eastern boundary, and as recent surveys seem to indicate that Ohio's claim is correct, Indiana's boundary would take in that part of Illinois in which the Windy City is situated

A Theme for Merriment

CHICAGO Nov 6—In United States District Attorney Milchrist's office there was a good deal of hilarity indulged in regarding the change of the state line While it was generally admitted that on the face of it there might be something in the claim that an alteration would be made in the Ohio and Indiana boundary the idea that it would affect Illinois property was scouted and formed more the theme for merriment than for any grave consideration

TOOK HER OWN LIFE.

Suicide of a Chicago Woman After Being Placed Under Arrest

DIXON Ills, Nov 6—Thursday evening Clifton Hitch reported to the city marshal that his overcoat had been stolen It was found at the express office marked to go to H A Beardsley 132 Adams street Chicago, and was brought there by Mrs Emily A Beardsley, who was found at the Washington House and arrested She said she would not be taken alive and at once swallowed a dose of poison A physician was called and succeeded in relieving her When the physician left Mrs. Beardsley broke a goblet and with the pieces cut her throat and died Friday morning Mrs. Beardsley was about 44 years old and lived in Chicago where she leaves several children

Fatal Lamp Explosion

CINCINNATI Nov 6—Mrs. Bridget Haley of West Pearl street, got up Thursday morning to prepare breakfast She took a small lamp and went down stairs and as she reached the cellar proper a draught of air caught the light The lamp exploded The burning coal oil was scattered about a large quantity getting on her wrapper and in a moment she was in a blaze, and horribly burned She can live but a few hours

FONSECA IS DICTATOR.

Outcome of the Recent Trouble in Rio Janeiro in Which Blood Was Shed.

RIO DE JANEIRO Nov 6—President Deodora Da Fonseca has been proclaimed dictator After the troubles in Rio Janeiro last Tuesday between riotous citizens and the soldiery, in which several of the former were killed the chiefs of the army requested Fonseca to assume the functions of a dictator, saying that the emergency demanded it He appeared to demur for a time but at length gave his consent He then issued a decree relating the causes of disagreement between him and the congress and defending his position Wednesday a conference of ministers was held

Proclaimed Himself Dictator

At its conclusion Fonseca issued another decree in which he proclaimed himself dictator He said that the dictatorship was to last until the political revolutions were at an end and law makers learned to keep in progress with republic ideas A dictatorship he added was the very best thing for the distracted country He disclaimed any intention of prolonging it after peace had been restored Telegrams received from Porto Alegro in the state of Rio Grande, Do Sul, declare that the authority of the dictator is not recognized there

Will Not Tolerate It

This state is one of the most prosperous and independent of all the states It has a population of nearly 700 000 The Republicans in it say that they will not tolerate a dictatorship and are demanding armed opposition to Fonseca It is officially announced that the president has convened the nation to elect new representatives at a date to be determined upon later The governors of the leading provinces have congratulated Fonseca upon his success in maintaining order

News Notes and Gossip from Washington

FIGURES FROM THE CENSUS OFFICE

Illinois Now Has a Population of 3 826,251, an Increase of Three Quarters of a Million in Ten Years—Members of the Third Artillery Regiment Dissatisfied with Their Rations—Secretary Foster Preparing His Annual Report.

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—The census office has completed its final compilation of the population of Illinois by minor civil divisions Of the 102 counties in the state thirty show slight decreases The growth of population in Illinois is altogether in the cities and towns The population of the state is now [illegible] an increase of 748 840 All of this increase is accounted for, and more by the growth of population in forty seven cities and towns Under the tenth census there were thirty-eight cities and towns having a population of 4 000 or more with an aggregate population of 844 4[illegible]

Chicago's Large Increase

Under the present census there are forty seven cities, towns and villages having a population of 4 000 or more, with an aggregate population of 1 604,[illegible] Thus an increase is shown in the aggregate population in cities of this size of 760 481 or 90 06 per cent Of these forty seven places two only show decrease The largest increase numerically is found in Chicago, which increased [illegible] or 118 8 per cent during the decade Large increases are found in Peoria, Rockford Joliet [illegible] Aurora Decatur and Streator

Changes in Official Figures

The largest percentage of increase are found in Austin Oak Park Streator, Chicago [illegible] Elgin Joliet R[illegible] and Decatur Changes have been made in the official figures of Bloomington and Jacksonville it having been discovered in the more recent critical examination of the returns that parts of enumeration districts should be included which had been wrongly returned and consequently not included in the population of those places

COMPLAIN OF THEIR RATIONS

Tribulations of the Third Artillery Regiment at Washington

WASHINGTON Nov 6—The officers of the Third artillery regiment stationed at Washington barracks, in this city are experiencing in a mild form the tribulations of the Grenadier guards of the British army The men belonging in two batteries make serious complaint of the quantity and quality of rations issued to them and threaten to bring the matter before the war department According to their story the rations are poor, badly cooked and insufficient in quantity Notwithstanding the fact that the revised army regulations prescribe an increase of rations the men claim they have received no increase

Can Cook Their Own Food

When the complaints reached the officers Captain Smith of battery K called one of the complainants and after questioning him ordered increased rations issued to the men with instructions that they were to do their own cooking The officers of battery K believe there is little if any ground for the men's complaints, except such occasional slips as might occur at any army post The privates who are loudest in denouncing their fare are said to be most refractory in the matter of regulations of the service and the only way to settle the unreasonable complaints was to issue the rations and allow malcontents the privilege of cooking them as they desired

Vicuna Still Has Hope

WASHINGTON Nov 6—Senor Vicuna, the exiled president elect of Chili is at the Arlington accompanied by his family and by Balmaceda's minister to Peru He has been in the city for two days but his identity was not known He does not speak English and has thus far temporarily escaped the interviewer here It is understood that he regards the newly formed government as unstable and that he is looking for a restoration of the old regime which would establish him as president to which office he was elected to succeed Balmaceda but was never inaugurated

Busy Days for Secretary Foster

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—Secretary Foster has begun the preparation of his annual report to congress in regard to national finances The comptroller of the currency, the mint and the United States treasurer have been called upon to give a general outline of the condition and need of the services directly under their supervision The secretary and Comptroller Lacey also had a special conference in regard to the failure of the Keystone and Spring Garden banks of Philadelphia and the Maverick bank of Boston

Machinery for Beet Sugar

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—Acting Secretary Spaulding has instructed collectors of customs to admit free of duty until July 1 1892 all machinery intended for use in producing sugar from beets and to accept affidavit of the owner as prima facie evidence of the intended use of the machinery but to require a bond equal to the duty that proof be produced within one year after importation that the machinery has been used in a beet factory in the production of sugar

MORE FAT FRYING.

One thing is sure; the men who conducted McKinley's campaign did not lack for funds. They seem to have been about as well supplied as were the New York republicans in 1888. It will be remembered that in that year the republican committees of New York paid as much as $60 car fare for a single vote. The Ohio republicans have been buying railroad tickets this year.

The following letter was sent from Van Wert, O., to Isaac Lee, a colored citizen of 392 State st., Chicago:

"MY REPUBLICAN FRIEND: We are now in the midst of a hot campaign in Van Wert county, and would like to have you come home and vote with us. If you will come we will pay a part or all of your expenses as you may think proper. Please do not fail to come. Yours truly,

FRANK W. PURMOTH,
Committee on Absentees.

Come and help us.—F. W. P."

Of course Mr. Lee went to Ohio. The Daily Globe says that he is a voter in Chicago, and that "he has been accustomed to do more talking in meetings of the colored men's republican club than seven men who can render a reason." The same paper further remarks:

"But the most interesting feature of the whole thing is that the same train which carried this patriot to Van Wert county carried two dozen other colored men bound for the same state. They voted for Major McKinley and the whole republican ticket. A conductor on the Lake Shore road remarked: 'Thought there was a colored men's convention somewhere in Ohio and I asked one of 'em about it.'

'No convention, boss. I's only going home to vote.'

'Where do you live?'

'I lives in Chicago when I lives anywhere, but I gets my washing done in Cleveland, sah.'

'I looked at that fellow a second time and if I am asked for an affidavit I will swear that he hasn't had any washing done in two years.'"

The Globe wants to make out a case of importing voters, who were not entitled to the franchise in Ohio, against the managers of the McKinley campaign. The place in which a man is entitled to vote is usually too fine a question to be satisfactorily settled in a post-campaign discussion. We will not say that the McKinley managers deliberately imported men they knew had no right to vote. It may be admitted, in the absence of positive proof to the contrary, that Isaac Lee was entitled to a vote in Van Wert, and the same may be conceded as to the other colored republicans who traveled in the same car.

But how did the Van Wert republicans get the money that was necessary for the campaign they conducted? There must recently have been a decided revival in "fat frying." When a committee undertakes to bring home the absentees from all parts of the United States, it must have an unlimited pile of dollars at its command. There is in The Globe a fac-simile of the letter sent to Lee. The proof is conclusive that the Van Wert republicans were rich enough in campaign funds to call home any of their distinguished brethren who were sojourning in Chicago.

It is pretty clear that protected manufacturers were again at the front, putting up their dollars to help the man who had secured them the latest advance in duties and bounties. The special interests were looking out for a continuance of their special legislation. Men dont put up money in this way unless they can see a way in which it will probably be returned to them.

Isaac Lee will not go down into his pocket to repay the money that was advanced for his railroad ticket. His part of the contract required him only to vote for McKinley. These men who submit to fat frying will undoubtedly look to the Major and his influence to see that they lose nothing. The only way in which the Major can proceed is to fix up some scheme to collect the bill with compound interest from the people. But the Major is an expert at that very trick; he has already perfected the scheme; he now has it working in splendid shape. The unprotected ones of the country are paying the bills. They are doing it on the installment plan, always the most costly in the long run. They have been contributing their assessments for more than a year. They will undoubtedly keep up the lick for two years more.

The sooner they stop this, the sooner they will be able to take a pleasant trip to see friends in other states. This will be a little rough on Isaac Lee; but he has had his turn at the luxuries. When do the ones who pay the fiddler get a chance to dance? Just as soon as they get sense enough to take it.

THE CHICAGO HERALD has the following pertinent and opportune observations on the subject of gerrymandering:

The result of the recent elections should effectually silence the republican accusations of gerrymandering. It is the republicans themselves who resort to redistricting as a means of gaining office and power. Iowa has just re-elected a democratic governor by a plurality possibly exceeding 10,000. Nevertheless the democrats find themselves in a minority in the lower house and six votes behind in case of a joint ballot. In New York Mr. Flower has been elected by over 40,000, and the legislature, instead of being overwhelmingly democratic, as it should be, if representative, will be pretty evenly divided. Contrast with the situation in these two states the result in Ohio, which has just been redistricted under democratic rule. Mr. McKinley is elected governor by 20,000 plurality, and the next Ohio senate will contain but 10 democrats, the house but 33. And, to cap the climax, about the first thing that the republicans will do in Ohio will be to gerrymander the state.

Now, if the Ohio republicans will only redistrict their state so as to give us a majority of 40 on joint ballot when we carry the state by only 20,000, we will agree to to say there is no gerrymandering in the deal.

ALLOW us to call the attention of The Rep to what The Boston Globe has to say about the national feature of the recent democratic election in Massachusetts:

"Nationally considered, the victory in Massachusetts is a storm signal of 1892 which the republican party throughout the country will observe with well grounded apprehensions. The Gibraltar of republicanism is made distinctly fighting ground for next year by the event of yesterday, and good fighting ground, too. Mr. Lodge and his candidate declared again on the stump that this contest was the skirmish line of 1892. The contest is over, and on the skirmish line they have been defeated. It follows that the electoral vote of Massachusetts is now a debatable quantity in the presidential equation."

And it should be remembered that the democrats are now engaged in laying a campaign-of-education mortgage on all "debatable quantities."

THERE is some talk among Ohio republicans about ousting Senator Brice and giving his seat to Foraker or Sherman, for it is not yet determined which of these two will be out of a job. The scheme, as reported, is to declare Brice ineligible and then settle the squabbles between Sherman and Foraker by sending both to the United States senate. When you corner the republican party its impudence is equal to a great deal, but we dont believe that it will dare to carry out this latest scheme. It is not entirely healthful work to step on the tails of Mr. Brice's coat.

THE newspapers are making a great fuss over Harrison's barrel of Scotch whisky. We are informed this worries the president. However you will note that he is not sufficiently disturbed to take the heroic measure of asking somebody to have a nip with him. While Harrison keeps a good thing of that kind entirely to himself, he may expect to hear a grating kind of yelp from the thirsty newspaper man who is compelled to tackle the unseasonable water cooler. "Say something," Benjamin, and you'll be temporarily all right.

THE Rep seems to think that in every place outside of Ohio it was local issues that defeated the republican party. Does it follow from this that generally the republican party is a rotten local affair. Why not tell the voters that local questions are always national when there is in the neighborhood a good republican who stands in need of an office?

SOME republican paper says that Wheeler did not make a speech in Iowa during the campaign. No one has heard a word from him since election day. Mr. Wheeler has evidently gone permanently into the deaf and dumb institute business.

WHY doesn't some Harrison organ say it was reciprocity that was on trial in Massachusetts, New York and Iowa?

ANOTHER CHICAGO MYSTERY.

The Woman Found on the Railway Track Was Probably Murdered.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—No clew has yet been discovered which will make it easy work to unravel the mystery surrounding the death of the young woman whose body was found early Wednesday morning at the Artesian avenue crossing of the Northwestern railway tracks on the west side. There seems to be the very best of grounds for the belief that the case is one of murder and equally as strong reasons to fear that it may turn out to be a companion to the Amelia Olson and Eva Mitchell cases.

Knife Wounds on the Body.

From all appearances the murderer or murderers placed the body on the track to give color to the idea that it was a case of suicide. The appearance of the body is that of a young woman about 24 years of age, light blue eyes, light hair, regular features, and rather slender figure of about the medium height. She belonged to the shop-girl class. There are a number of cuts on her left shoulder and two on the right cheek which had evidently been inflicted with a knife, which helps bear out the theory that the woman had been murdered and then laid on the rails.

Lieutenant Shippey Has No Clew.

"There is nothing thus far revealed that throws any light on the matter," said Lieutenant Shippey Thursday morning, and the detectives at work on the case are likewise in the dark. The trinkets found on the woman's body consisted of nine bangles made from silver 10-cent pieces, on which were the following initials: "Effie," "Elly," "Will," "Frankie," "J. R.," "C. C. W.," "E. R.," "C. A. M.," and "F. M." A silver purse was also found on her person bearing the initials "C. F." The woman's clothing was not marked.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Fatal Fire in a Railway Signal Factory at Galesburg, Ills.

GALESBURG, Nov. 5.—The factory of the Acme Railway Signal company was burned to the ground Wednesday afternoon. At the time of the fire there were twenty people at work in the building, many of whom were girls. So rapidly did the fire spread that Avrilka Degerold, a young woman of 24, was caught in the flames and burned to death. Dora Titus was burned about the face and body. Her injuries are not considered serious. The fire is supposed to have caught by the igniting of a number of signals in the course of manufacture. The loss will reach $25,000; insured for $20,000.

Granted a Temporary Injunction.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Robert Lindblom, who has been a member of the board of trade for fifteen years, Thursday procured an injunction from Judge Tuley restraining the board from interfering with him in sending constant market quotations of the board by telegraph from the floor of the exchange. Mr. Lindblom has since the 1st of the month been sending the quotations to the St. Louis Merchants' exchange and the board notified him that he must cease sending them. The writ granted is only temporary.

In Defense of Boyer.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 5.—Ex-Deputy Attorney General Gilbert took up the morning session of the senate in defense of State Treasurer Boyer. He criticised Governor Pattison's statements as unfair and exaggerated, and contended that the state could not lose over $87,000 by Bardsley's operation, whereas the governor fixed the sum at over $1,300,000. Mr. Gilbert argued that there was no evidence of Boyer's connection with Bardsley's irregularities.

Plot to Assassinate Colonel Canto.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Herald's Valparaiso dispatches state that a plot has been discovered to assassinate Colonel Canto, the leader of the junta forces during the recent rebellion. It is stated that the discovery was very timely. The news has caused much excitement. The plot was unearthed among adherents of the late president. The Itata arrived at Valparaiso Wednesday. Her officers and crew were most heartily received by the populace.

A Cut in Wages.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 5.—The Monongahela river coal operators have decided to reduce the rate for mining from 3½ to 3 cents per bushel. The cut will affect 8,000 men. The excuse given for the cut is that the reduction is necessary in order that the river operators may compete with the railroad operators, who, since the recent strike are paying the 3 cent rate. There may be another strike.

Heard of After Three Years.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 5.—Dr. H. M. Snyder, a young man supposed to have been drowned three years ago in the Mississippi river, has been heard from. His mother, who lives in this city, Thursday morning received a letter from him dated at the Albany hotel, Denver, saying that he was there. She will leave for Denver at once.

Four Stockmen Killed in a Wreck.

WACO, Tex., Nov. 5.—The second section of a Missouri, Kansas and Texas stock train ran into the rear of section No. 1, causing a bad wreck about five miles south of here. The engineer of one of the trains was slightly injured. Four stock men who were riding in the caboose of the first section were killed.

Appears in "After Dollars," Too.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 5.—Jim Corbett, who appears in "After Dark" at the Bijou theatre this week, has received the following telegram from the California Athletic club: "Will give $7,500 for a fight between you and Maher, the Irish champion." Corbett answered as follows: "It must be $10,000 or no go."

Mayor Sues a Justice for Slander.

MOBERLY, Mo., Nov. 5.—Mayor James W. Ragsdale begun suit against Wilson Robertson, justice of the peace, for slander. The mayor asks damages of $10,000. The slander consisted in charging that the mayor last year waylaid and shot at Councilman Jennings in this city.

THE DEPTH OF MISERY.

How to Surely Escape It.

For abject misery nothing exceeds the condition of the dyspeptic. Sufferers from dyspepsia are irritable, nervous, cross, blue, discouraged, depressed in mind and miserable in body.

Good health means good digestion, and you who cannot eat because food distresses you, have gas, faintness, sourness, sinking or gnawing at pit of stomach, poor appetite, swelling or bloating, malaria, who are constipated, bilious, with dizzy, dull-feeling head, bad taste and feel depressed, lack strength and energy, remember that it is your stomach and weakened nerves which cause all your difficulties

How to overcome these distressing conditions is the great question There is one remedy which never fails, the greatest of all stomach medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura. If you have not tried this wonderful remedy which so quickly and perfectly regulates the stomach and bowels, assists digestion and aids assimilation.

Do so at once and good appetite, perfect digestion, sound health will be yours. Purely vegetable and harmless. All druggists, $1.00.

"I suffered much pain, could not eat or sleep well, and felt miserable. I used Dr. Greene's Nervura and took it but a few weeks before I was completely cured. I advise all who are complaining to use Dr. Greene's Nervura.

N. B. ☞ Dr. Greene, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, 35 W. 14th Street, New York, can be consulted free, personally, or by letter. Call or write him about your case, or send for symptom blank to fill out, and a letter fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., will be returned free.

AT DECATUR IN 1892.

THE PEORIA CONVENTION HONORS OUR PEOPLE.

June, 1892, the Time and Decatur the Place for the Illinois Convention—Decatur People Given Places in Selecting the Officers—The Decatur Hour Well Filled.

Decatur was "in it" decidedly at the state convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor at Peoria yesterday Besides sending three coach loads of people to the convention on the special train, this city took an active part in the proceedings of the day.

One of the first honors conferred on this city was its selection as the place for holding the convention next year. The month of June was fixed on as the time This is a big convention. Fully 1,000 delegates are at Peoria, besides a large number of visitors who go to take advantage of the reduced rates and see the city. The convention is always advertised extensively by the state committee and a good opportunity is afforded of letting the people of Illinois know what kind of a town it is that the convention meets in.

At yesterday's session Dr. Penhallegon of the Presbyterian society of Decatur was chairman of the committee on nominations D A. Strader of the First Methodist society was made state auditor. Bering Burrows of the Antioch society and Miss Anna Henkle of Grace church society were put on the state committee

The half hour allotted Decatur, from 11 to 11 30 a. m, was well filled and favorably commented on by the delegates All the short addresses on lookout committee work made by the representatives of the Decatur union were well received and pronounced very good I N Martin, Jr, president of the Decatur union, had charge of the convention that half hour. These Decatur people were on the program Misses Alice Tyler, Lillian Irwin, Maud Calhoun, Ethel Dimock and Anna Henkle. This was the

7 00—Praise service
7 30—Address—"The Young Man's Battle in the Nineteenth Century," by Bishop Charles Edward Cheney, Chicago
8 15—Address—"Laborers Together with God," by Rev J A Rondthaler, D D, Indianapolis

The Peoria convention is described as being a reproduction of the Minneapolis convention on a smaller scale That was described as being one of the greatest and most enthusiastic religious gatherings ever known For its size Peoria's convention is said to be equally as enthusiastic and lively

Among those present at the convention from Decatur were the following

Misses Maude Calhoun, Lillian Irwin, Ida and Eva Humphrey, Nett and Ada Pritchett, Mary Lindsay, Lissa Jones, Minnie Davis, Lena Hieckish, Mrs Louise Hiekish, Minna Nicholson Ethel Dimock Etta Sherman, Hattie Brown, Mrs E M Carter, Luella Camp of Bement, Lillie Chadsey, Alice Tyler, Devot Strader, Alvine Wilson, Leon Livingston Calvin Liman, Frank Bean, Ike Martin Charles Dressback John Thomas, Thomas Caun, Rev Penhallegon, Rev W C Miller, A H Jones

SENTENCED

The motion for a new trial for S S Powell, Martin May and Mike Kennah, for robbery, was overruled, and each defendant was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on the verdict of the jury

THANKFUL COOPER

One of the interesting incidents of the day was the sentencing of Young Cooper, who was arrested last week for giving his brother whisky in open court. When Cooper came into court his face was as long as a rainy week. He expected a sentence of six months in jail. He took a seat dejectedly before the judge When that official turned his eyes on Cooper he got up

"Young man," said Judge Vail, "have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced on you?"

"All I have to say," was the reply "is that I am sorry for what I did. I was drunk, I had no idea that I was doing anything wrong I ask the mercy of the court"

"You have now been in jail five days? Well, I'll make it 10 more from today"

"Thank you sir, thank you sir, I am very much obliged," was the delighted reply of Cooper, as he broke in a pleased laugh. He shook all over with pleasure. "Come on," he said to the bailiff, "lets go back" He was anxious to go to work on the 10 days at once The whole court room joined with him in the laugh

THE MACON MATTER

The injunction case against the village of Macon came up yesterday for argument Mills Brothers & Mills represented the village Cren & Ewing appeared for the persons who wanted the injunction. The question is whether or not the board has proceeded as far as it has gone according to the law Judge Vail took the matter under advisement and will give his decision next Monday

COMMON LAW DOCKET

Minerva White vs John and Albert Howland, appellant, appeal judgment for plaintiff for property and writ of possession awarded.

Veteran Mules.

While at West Plains, Mo a few days ago, J C Crane, the dealer in dynamite, saw two mules that certainly would be entitled to pensions as veterans They are the property of John Boys In 1861 he entered the service of the confederate states with the two mules. He used the mules all through the war to haul ammunition He has been using them every day since and both appear to be as young and frisky as the day their service began Mr Crane had ocular demonstration of this, when he went too close to the heels of one. The heels came flying up so close to Mr Crane's head that he could feel a breeze Those mules are still doing a full day's work every day, are as fat as butter balls, and look as if they were good for another 35 years

Funeral of Thomas Wilson

The funeral services over the body of the late Thomas Wilson took place yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence, 250 Central avenue, Rev E B Cake officiating. The residence was filled with a large number of friends of the deceased. The floral offerings were many and very beautiful, tokens of the high esteem in which the deceased was held during his life Interment in Greenwood The pall bearers were Judge Nelson, W. L Hammer, L B. C. Leffingwell, P Humphrey, E McNabb and Jesse Leforgee.

O'Dowd's Neighbors' Tonight

The dress worn by Miss Jennie Reynold's as the Goddess of Liberty in "O Dowd's Neighbor's" to be given tonight is said to be the most magnificent ever seen. Charles Eastwood is said to give a most wonderful imitation of the late J. K Emmett. The whole performance is highly spoken of by the Philadelphia press. They opened in the Empire theatre in that city to $1,304 and played to the capacity at every performance. They have a large number of singing ladies with the company, and a number of funny comedians, headed by Mark Murphy and Sam J Ryan

Sent to Jail

John Murray was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by H Crockett, the restaurant keeper. Crockett claimed that Murray would not pay him and apparently was going to defraud him of the money due, about $7. Justice Curtis took the same view of the case and sent him to jail.

To Go to Danville

The members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will meet on Sunday at their hall at 6 30 sharp to go to Danville to witness the exercises attendant upon the laying of the corner stone of the new school building.

WILL NOT BE HUNTED

NO EVIDENCE TO CONVICT IN THE OGDEN CASE.

The Men In a Quarrel With Harry Ogden Would Be Arrested If They Were In Sight—No Money or Time Will Be Spent Hunting Them—Not Likely That They Could Be Convicted—The Inquest.

It is almost certain that no effort will be made to catch the man who killed Harry Ogden. If he was here in the city, he would be arrested and held for trial. As he is not, and as it is not known how much trouble or expense it would be to get him, nothing will be done. The reason for that is that an acquittal would be almost certain to follow the arrest. This was made evident by the evidence before the coroner's jury yesterday. Marshal Mason and State's Attorney Mills came to that conclusion before the inquest. If the man were arrested in another state State's Attorney Mills would have to certify that he believed he had evidence enough to convict before he could get the prisoner on a requisition. He cannot so certify, and so the prisoner could not be brought here for trial, even if he were under arrest.

Such being the status of the case, it is not likely that any one will spend time and money just to have a trial that is almost certain to declare the prisoner not guilty. The police are not doing anything more in the case. This course will meet the approval of the community. The facts go to show that Ogden was the aggressor. He provoked the quarrel. He had a knife in his hand. He had been around the evening before the fight, looking for trouble. However peaceable and good natured he might be when sober, it would be no trouble to prove that he was a bad man when drunk.

THE INQUEST

of the coroner's jury was held yesterday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock. The evidence was all taken by 5. It was practically the same as the story told in these columns yesterday morning. The testimony of all the witnesses agreed substantially, and most of it is reproduced below. The first witness was

WILLIAM DUNHAM.

I knew the deceased; have known him for 12 or 13 years; his name was Harry Ogden; saw him yesterday. He and I rode around in a buggy yesterday evening; got the buggy at Caldwell's barn. After we rode awhile, we put the buggy up and walked with a couple of girls. Left the girls and went to Melhorn's saloon a little before 9 o'clock in the evening. I played cards in the card room for about half an hour. Ogden looked on for awhile and then sat down and appeared to be asleep. He got up and threatened to strike Harry Hathaway and I told him not to do it.

When I came in at the back door of the saloon saw a middle sized man strike at Ogden, I started on in a hurry. When I got there Harry was staggering; I saw no weapon till after the police got there. I heard no threats in saloon, but Ogden said before he started down stairs, "I will get him." Did not see Ogden strike the man by whom he was struck; the man who struck Ogden had been playing cards. It was the man alluded to when he said, "I will get him." Dont think Ogden spoke to hime before the game broke. Harry Ogden was about 23 or 24 years old, I think. When I saw the man strike Ogden I threw down my overcoat and started for the place. The man who struck Ogden passed me, I think, on his way out. When I got up and saw Harry Ogden I thought he had been cut. It was only a moment till Ogden fell. As soon as the fellow hit Ogden he ran. I heard Ogden say nothing before he fell.

HARRY HATHAWAY.

I saw Harry Ogden about 9 o'clock last night in the club room over Melhorn's saloon. He did nothing then. He came in with William Dunham; heard him speak but once while he was in the room. He was not engaged at anything; all Ogden said was to tell me to let Dunham go; there were two strangers there; one would weigh about 150 pounds; was about 5 feet 9½ inches tall, dark hair. He appeared to be a farmer or a laborer. The other man would weigh 160 pounds, full face with Roman nose, and light mustache. He was said to be a painter. The first man described is said to have worked near Harristown for a man named Holmes. I saw none of the striking; was not in the saloon at the time.

ZACH MELHORN.

"I saw Harry Ogden last night; saw him first between 8 and 9 o'clock going through the saloon; saw him next at back door coming in, about half an hour later; two men came ahead of him; when they were near the screen door, in the barroom, about 65 feet of Ogden, Ogen said, "Hold on, you sons of bitches, I'll just get both of you!" The men did not stop, but went through the screen door and I supposed, had passed out. Ogden came after them on a run and passed through the screen door. As soon as Ogden got through the screen door, I heard a racket; a noise but no words; had been sitting at back end of the bar; when I got back of the bar they got into the barroom. Ogden and one of the men with whom he was quarrelling struck several times at each other; then the third man walked some some distance towards the rear door; Ogden was striking high and the other man seemed to strike Ogden on the left side; Ogden did not seem to be hurt; had said "Stop this! if you want to fight go outside," and started around the bar to separate them; the man who was fighting Ogden ran past me and got out at the back door; Ogden did not seem to be hurt, but followed his antagonist some 15 or 20 feet; he stopped, pulling back his coat and feeling his side; he said, "I believe I am cut," or "I believe I am hurt," am not certain which; Ogden seemed to be angry. As soon as he said that he walked south in the barroom; he was pale and when he had gotten to the middle of the barroom, he began to stagger; he caught himself but in a moment more, fell to the floor; saw no weapons until Ogden fell; when I attempted to pick him up I got my hand in blood and saw an open knife on the floor; William Dunham was not in the room until after the men left; Ogden took no drinks at the saloon that evening; it was a few minutes after the fracas that Dunham came; he went up to Ogden and said: "They have killed him; he will die." When they came in these two men were walking rapidly as if trying to get out; the sandy complected man was the one who was in trouble with Ogden.

WILLIAM B. KRAMER.

Did not know Harry Ogden; saw the dead body of a man they said was Harry Ogden; saw several strangers over Melhorn's saloon last night, where there was a game of poker; a man with a black mustache sat in the game at my left, and a man with a sandy mustache sat next to him, on his left; the former was in the game; Lafe Dunham, who was in the game, said to the man with the sandy mustache: "Dam you, if you want in this game, get in!" The man replied: "I am interested in the game," and would neither go down stairs nor sit in the game; that ended that trouble. About 20 minutes later I opened a jack pot and in the game Lafe Dunham got mad and said, "You son of a bitch, I can lick you!" Harry Hathaway and one or two of the others caught Dunham and shoved him into a corner; Hathaway said, "I dont want any trouble up here," and to me, "you had better go," and I got out; went over to Myer's saloon and got a glass of beer and came back to Melhorn's and heard that somebody was killed; think the sandy mustached fellow and the black mustached man came away before I did; when I came down I went through the saloon; think the two went out ahead of me; heard some one say, "I will get you, you son of a bitch," as I went out the front of the saloon.

JOHN MELHORN.

I did not know Harry Ogden; saw two men, they were going rapidly; Ogden came after them; he said as he came "Hold up, I will just get both of you." The two men did not stop but went through to the screen. Ogden passed through the screen also; came back through the screen; saw Ogden strike once and the short man strike once and run towards the back door; saw a knife in the right hand of the man, just after he struck Ogden; he paused a moment before he ran towards the back door; did not see Ogden have a knife; saw no knife on the floor.

JAMES WALLACE.

Was slightly acquainted with Harry Ogden; soon after Ogden and one of the men came in through the screen, into the saloon scuffling; saw Ogden strike first; the other man struck at Ogden; they exchanged three or four blows; saw the stranger strike Ogden in the side and then run out the rear door, Ogden followed the man a few steps, returned toward the bar and soon fell.

CHARLES OWENS.

I knew Harry Ogden, the deceased; knew some of his property; knew he had a knife; it was a medium sized, black handled knife, with a corkscrew attachment. [He was here shown the knife.] Am not certain that it was his knife; thought the screw opened at the end; this one opens at the middle of the handle; it may be his knife. [Shown another knife.] Never saw that knife in Ogden's possession that I know of.

ADAM MELHORN.

I knew Harry Ogden by sight but not by name; saw Ogden and one of the men in the barroom in a scuffle, saw them exchange two or three blows: saw the men running out the back way afterwards; I saw a knife in the man's hand as he went to the rear door; think the blade was between three and four inches long; saw another knife which was picked off the floor open. "That is the knife." It is not the knife the man had who ran out of the back door, for I saw the knife as he passed me. As Ogden came in at the back door before the scuffle he said to the two men in front of him, "Hold on and I'll get both of you."

THE VERDICT

included a lengthy description of the wound and of the place of the difficulty. The important part of it follows: "Harry Ogden came to his death by a blow from a deadly weapon, said weapon being an open knife in the hands of a person identified but to us by name unknown."

The jurymen were Dr. H. D. Heil, W. F. Calhoun, R. A. Newell, Emil F. Young, W. E. R. Kell, E. S. Baker.

NOT MALLOY.

The police discovered that it was not Richard Malloy, the farm hand who worked near Harristown last summer, who stabbed Ogden, but his friend, who so far has been known only as "Ed." He came from Scottsburg, Ind., last Saturday.

WHERE THE MEN WENT

that night after the trouble is still a mystery that now will probably never be solved. They undoubtedly did not know how badly Ogden was hurt, and so their escape was largely accidental. They may have heard of Ogden's death that night and left town at once, either on a train, or by walking out.

THE POLICE

did good work that night in ascertaining at once where the men came from, and where they would undoubtedly have been found had it not been that they were migrating when the trouble happened. Marshal Mason staid up till 4 o'clock that night, and was up at 6 yesterday morning. He did good work on the case, and understood it at once. He was on the scene of the trouble within a few minutes after it happened, and was the coolest man there. It is not likely that he would have much trouble in capturing the men if there was evidence enough against them to justify the expense.

Must Take Its Turn.

Judge Vail announced yesterday morning that when court reopens on December 7 the criminal docket would be called in its regular order.

"Are you not going to take up the Hunter case first?" said State's Attorney Mills.

"No, not out of its order. It can come in its regular time," was the reply.

"But that is a most important case," continued the state's attorney, "and if it comes in order it may not come up for two months. It has taken trouble to get the evidence and the witnesses ready, and they may be scattered. The case should not be delayed."

"That is no more important case than some others, and there is no more reason why it should come up out of its turn," said the judge. "Others have come to me to have their cases come up first, and it would be just as much trouble to get the evidence against them. We will call the docket in order, and the Hunter case can come up when we get to it."

So that puts the Hunter case off at least a month longer. The judge is right about there being other cases on the docket. There are hundreds of old cases that go over term after term, but still stand there. There are many cases that should be either tried or stricken.

AN EVENING OF SURPRISES.

A Tea Party Ends With an Announcement of Great Social Interest.

One of the most enjoyable gatherings of many months was the tea party given last night at the residence of J. M. Clokey in honor of Miss Mollie Barnes. It was well arranged to be agreeable, and besides that included a number of surprises that added to the interest and kept the evening from getting within shouting distance of anything like monotony.

The ladies were invited to meet at the residence of Mr. Clokey at 4:30. Miss Mollie Barnes, Mrs. William Young, Philadelphia; Mesdames William Barnes, Ira N. Barnes, W. B. Chambers, V. H. Parke, Albert Barnes, Silas Packard, L. L. Race, Miss Annie Packard were there then. They were there ostensibly for the purpose of enjoying a "dove" party. Dove is a more euphonious designation for a "hen" party. When all were assembled Mrs. Clokey distributed cards on which were parts of quotations. She informed the ladies that when each one had found the other part of her quotation they would have tea, and not before. Of course every one went to work with great enthusiasm for a few minutes. They soon found, however, that no two of the cards could be matched. Each lady had the end of some quotation. When they had exhausted their ingenuity on the subject, and were about to conclude that if left to themselves they would get no tea, the doors were opened and in walked these gentlemen: Dr. W. A. Barnes, Dr. William Barnes, V. H. Parke, Dr. Ira N. Barnes, W. B. Chambers, L. L. Race, Guy J. Parke, Clokey Henry, M. Elson, J. M. Clokey and Ira Clokey. It did not take the ladies long to recover from their surprise and find that each one of the gentlemen had a card on which was the beginning of a quotation that ended on a card held by one of the ladies.

As according to the rules supposed to exist for that tea party gentlemen were to be excluded, all were very careful not to say anything about a meeting they were to have at V. H. Parke's at precisely 4:30. When all were there, they got their quotation cards in some way, and then proceeded to the residence of Mr. Clokey.

Soon after the gentlemen came tea was announced. It was found to be an elaborate wedding supper, served in courses by Mrs. Guyton in the most dainty way. All the appointments were complete. The table was magnificent. There was no cloth, but instead the handsome service of gold was set on blue lace mats on the finely polished top. The whole service was blue and gold, and strikingly pretty. The first course was fried chicken, served with waffles, potato chips and cherries. The second course was chicken salad served with raw oysters and lemon jelly. Course three consisted of maccaroon cream, different kinds of cakes, and preserved white cherries. Gold colored ribbon candy, buttercups, clear coffee and chocolate sticks concluded the supper.

After all had finished, Mrs. Clokey announced the following toasts, and called on the persons named for responses:

"The Bride."—J. M. Clokey.

"Your Opinion of Daughtersinlaw."—Dr. W. A. Barnes.

"What He Knows About Noses."—Dr. William Barnes.

"The Recent Visitation of Spirits."—W. B. Chambers.

"What Are the Prospects For a Cold Wave?"—V. H. Parke.

"What You Think of Surprises."—Dr. Ira Barnes.

The responses were many of them witty, and all entertaining. After the last word had been said an adjournment was taken to the parlor. There the surprise of the evening came. It was one that will be a surprise to the social world in our city, too. J. M. Clokey announced the engagement of Miss Mollie Barnes to George R. Stanton of the City of Mexico, and stated further that the wedding would take place at her father's residence early this month.

Regrets at not being able to be present at the tea party were received from Miss Jessie Gillett, Silas Packard and Albert Barnes.

After all had gone there was another surprise, unexpected by any one. Mrs. Guyton was informed that a gentleman had called to see her on important business. She met her son Erskine, who had been in Dakota all summer, and had just arrived in Decatur unannounced.

STRAY SCRAPS.

"O'Dowd's Neighbor's" tonight.

Mrs. J. W. Race is expected home from Minneapolis today.

Edward Rosider of Edwardsville was in the city yesterday on business.

Mrs. Abbie Murphey and daughter Josie are visiting friends at Taylorville.

Keck & Weigand have rented the room in the Opera House block formerly occupied by G. W. Ehrhart & Co., and will soon move in.

M. J. Hutchinson of Mt. Zion is building a handsome home in the northwest part of the town.

Joe Stout, F. O. Damrow and wife and Will Lyon went to Chicago on the Wabash last night.

J. H. Culver has bought a new bicycle. He spent most of the day yesterday trying to ride it.

A warrant was sworn out for O. W. Kincaid last night by a fellow who claimed that he lost $75 in Ol's place. The warrant has not been served.

M. H. Fritz was arrested by Officer Connard last night for breaking open a room mate's trunk in a house on East William street and stealing $25.

A service for "children reformation" will be given by the English Lutherans tomorrow at their church.

Mrs. Lane and daughter, Miss Kate Lane of Maroa, were in the city looking for a piece of property with the intention of building.

The special train that took the Christian Endeavor people to Peoria arrived on the return at 1:30 this morning. Both lines had street cars waiting at the depot for the train.

Stories enough were told yesterday about the men who had the trouble with Harry Ogden to fill a book. Every other man in town saw them either yesterday or the night before.

A horse was shipped here yesterday from Springfield for treatment. An operation on the head is to be performed for a dead bone. The horse is a fast pacer and a valuable one. Drs. Reid & Ullrich have the animal in charge.

TRACK AND TRAIN.

Fireman Fitzpatrick of the 457 is laying off.

Operator Ed Smith is visiting at his home at Carbondale.

Will Montgomery is firing the 478, and Dick Deerdorf is on the 568.

Fireman Lee Michl of I. C. switch engine 1466 is visiting at his home in Pana.

Harry Strickland is laying off and Engineer Powers is running the 560 in his stead.

Fireman Frank Marsh returned last night from the hospital at Springfield. He has been sick.

I. A. Pharo is replacing some telegraph poles which were destroyed by fire on the west side.

Wabash No. 5 from Chicago was delayed 40 minutes yesterday afternoon because of the breaking down of a coal car on the main line at Monticello just before she was due there.

The engine on the north bound train of the Illinois Central broke down when near the furniture factory yesterday morning. The train was not damaged much and soon pulled out.

The Illinois Central Diamond Special north bound was very late this morning. One of the cars ran off the track at the "Y" at Vandalia, and some time was used getting it on again.

Beginning yesterday all the men in the shops of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad at Danville are on short time. They begin work at 8 o'clock, and quit at 12. The ostensible reason is the strike among the Indiana miners.

Wabash earnings for the fourth week in October amounted to $439,775, an increase of $40,738 over the corresponding week last year. The earnings for October amounted to $1,333,630 56, an increase of $55,554 72 over the corresponding month last year.

The train on the I. D. & W., due here at 3:30 a. m., was seven hours late yesterday. About 30 miles from Indianapolis the flues in the engine burned out, and it was powerless. Engine No. 1 was sent back to Indianapolis and engine No. 9 brought the train in, in charge of Engineer Burns.

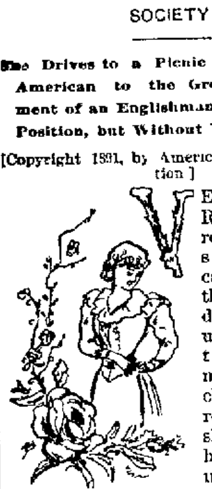
HOW THE BUD BLOOMED.

HER EDUCATION IN THE WAYS OF SOCIETY

She Drives to a Picnic with a Young American to the Great Disappointment of an Englishman of Wealth and Position, but Without Youth

[Copyright 1891, by American Press Association]



VERY soon after Rose Budd was really out the summer time came, and she thought of the days when she used to romp through the meadows and to climb about the rocks and when she used to take her early morning rides at that fashionable paradise known as Newport But everything was different now She was no longer the pretty girl in her cotton frock, and with her hair in long thick braids coming from out her broadbrim hat Oh, dear no, she still climbed the rocks, but it was in the evening under the escort of a young man who belonged to our set, and who rather liked taking the little Budd girl out because she "didn't talk and she didn t ask a fellow to talk '

Pretty Rose was still romantic enough to stand there on the rocks and look at the moon and wonder It s true that she still went to gay picnics in cotton gowns but then they were cotton gowns that Worth had made and it was known to be very bad form to wear anything but cotton when one was young and one s position in society assured

It is true that she still rode out early in the morning, but it was because her English cousin did it, because she rode so well, and because her habit fitted her so perfectly From a social standpoint Rose was being educated She spoke one evening to a pleasant woman who happened to be near her in a crowd and her mother said ' Never, never Rose let me see you speak to that woman again She was idiot enough to absolutely fall in love with a man who died and though she s quite past thirty her mother still permits her to mourn for him and to say that she will never marry

SHE STILL CLIMBED THE ROCKS

Somehow Rose didn t quite understand this, and she asked her mother ' Is love bad form? Is faithfulness in bad taste

And her wordly wise mother answered looking into the clear blue eyes of the girl ' Love? Yes why of course my dear you must love your father and me and when you marry you must love your husband Yes said Rose but oughtn t I to love my husband before I marry him? Oughtn t I know that he loves me and wants to make me his wife Certainly not responded her mother in a very indignant tone I ve always regretted Rose that you were not sent abroad to school You have probably got all those ridiculous American notions about loving your husband and being true to him My dear all that society asks is that you shall appear to like him and well, for my own part, I ve always thought it better form to be polite to one s husband when one s alone with him, for, after all even with a husband that old saying of St Francis de Sales is very wise and 'Sugar does catch more flies than vinegar '

Rose pondered over this a good bit but there was a picnic on hand and when one is eighteen and beautiful one doesn t philosophize very long Rose was to drive her own trap, and when she put on her big leghorn hat with the wreath of roses about it she thought of somebody who had sent her a bunch of roses and when she clasped the little silver buckle that held her waist ribbon in place she took a real rose from a jar and stuck it in her belt, and then she looked in the looking glass and blushed at her own reflection and wondered why her mother was so severe about love Waiting for her were the prettiest pair of ponies in Newport and they deserved their names Silk and Satin, for they were so glossy Their little mistress fed them with lumps of sugar and a big handsome man held the tiny basket wherein the sweets were and he said to her as they were trying to find the very last lump of sugar You will drive me over to the picnic won t you ' And Rose because she was a bit coquettish looked up at him and asked, 'Are you sure you want to go'

' ALL YOU SURE

Then before he had time to tell her how much it would mean to him the stately dowager approached bringing with her such a man' He looked as if he had been made of parchment and as if they had forgotten the bones in his face because his cheeks hung down so He wore a wig and had bad, little, keen eyes that looked up from a low forehead and that meant determination He spoke and Rose shuddered He put out his hands and she felt as if a toad had touched her, and her mother said, "Rose, my darling, I want to present to you Sir Willoughby de Vere, who thinks that you are the only American girl that he has seen whom he really considers absolutely good form "

What Rose said was probably very bad manners, and there was a flush in her cheeks that made you think, when you looked at her eyes, that the red white and blue of American independence lived in her heart and spoke through her lips, but she announced, "In that case wouldn t it be wiser for the gentleman from England to take some girl that isn't quite as good form and train her in the way she should go?" Sir Willoughby looked as only such a man could look when an American girl had the impudence to do anything more than adore him He murmured something about ' Miss Budd being so witty and so charming and so seldom one found a woman who was so bright, and, by jove, a fellow wants an American wife to amuse him, and wouldn t Miss Budd cut a dash in the prince s set when she went over there and really he didn t mind a little chaffing ' and Miss Rose Budd who d only seen seventeen Fourths of July said 'Yes, I am like the prince very I carry around my own checks with me and one is a check to bad manners by never pretending to see them

And Rose Budd drove off to that picnic with a good looking American man by her side and her horses ears were decorated with pink roses

DROVE OFF TO THAT PICNIC

And her mother put up her lorgnette and moaned with despair Sir Willoughby what can we do with the American girl

And Sir Willoughby with disappointment on his face and a monocle in his eye, looked after the ponies as they raced down the road and answered You might as well give her what she wants for by jove you know she ll get it any how Women s Wages and Their Eating.

And now they are trying to make out that the cause of low wages among woman workers is that they eat less than men and are content to go on eating less If they ate more their wages would be raised Is not the inverse proposition the more probable? If their wages were raised would they not eat more The real reason of the injustice constantly met with by self supporting women lies deeper than that Indeed there is no one reason for it But the women themselves have the matter largely in their own hands Let them assert themselves as a class rather than as individuals and see how quickly their condition will improve

The accusation that women are natural snobs is scarcely just their snobbery is a matter of education People have so long confused the terms equal and identical and the young woman has for so many generations been impressed with her duty to make a lady of herself that it is not surprising that women are slow about boldly and bravely declaring themselves workers Most of them are not ashamed to work but they object to being classed They expect that inevitable man to come along and rescue them from lives of toil They regard their work as merely temporary Suppose they do marry and marry well Some other woman steps into the vacant position and she suffers in the low wages paid her because the other woman and the other women were too selfish or too indifferent to help her to demand more

There are about 1 800 000 women workers in the United States In New York city alone there are 200 000 Of these less than 5 000 belong to labor organizations Of the 5 000 an overwhelming majority are foreign born The Typewriters and Stenographers' union is exclusively American but it is very small The presumption is that the majority of typewriters would prefer to good wages the possibility of captivating their employers

Spiders of several kinds are found in caves They are uniformly small weak and of sedentary habits No webs do they spin save a few irregular threads sometimes What they live upon is rather a puzzle though it is supposed that they catch straw mites and other such small fry
